ELECTION NOTES.

Judge Robertson's splendid judicial ability has been appreciated by an intelligent public and irrelevant issues cut no figure in his election.
Mr. Burleson has made an efficient district attorney and when the sovereign venter went into the election booth prejudice found no abiding place there and though Clark's followers were overwhelmingly in the majority Mr. Burleson received a compliment that he is a right to be proud of.
A. S. Walker, Jr., past efficient record did him proud Tuesday.

The Hello Girl Doomed.

The "hello" girl will soon follow the coal oil lamp and the street car mule into the melancholy past. We will miss the cherry voice and the electric giggle of the "hello" girl, but science is camping on her trail and soon her occupation will be gone. The Stowager Automatic telephone exchange is the instrument which promises to cut short her usefulness and rob the business hours of the gilded clerk of their chiefest charm. The stowager enables every user of the "phone" to become his own "hello" girl and does away with all the bother incident to telephonic connections. In addition to relieving busy business men of the necessity of fracturing all the ten commandments in a lump to choke off a lingering distance tele-a-tete between the "hello" girl and some dizzy dude long enough to order a carload of cabbage or sell a barrel of cider, the Stowager Automatic promises to materially reduce the cost of service. Just what is to become of the "hello" girl when the automatic gets general action is hard to say, but there will doubtless be found a niche for her somewhere in the great world's economy. We will miss her when we come string our ideas on the wire. —S. Antonio Express.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

CIRCULAR OF HENRY CLEWS & CO., ON COMMERCIAL TOPICS.

Railroad Stocks are Held Firm With Prospects of Good Dividends—Money is Free and Trade in All Lines is Prosperous.

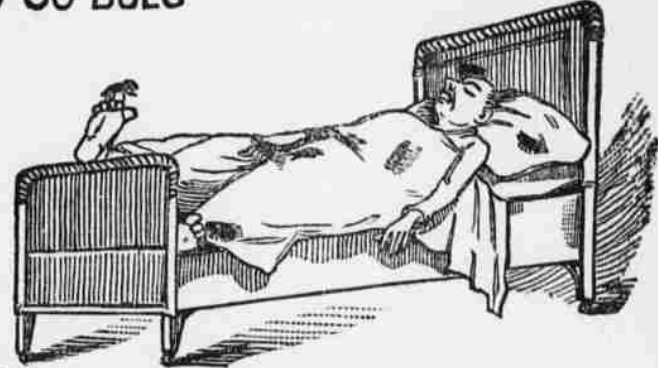

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Affairs in Wall street remain about stationary. Transactions are confined mainly to the "industrial" stocks and to those of the Reading, St. Paul, New England and Northern Pacific railroads, while the general list is neglected. The "bull" operations in certain industrial have directly helped to support the dormant railroad stocks and prices therefore are generally kept steady, but there is a feeling in some quarters, that when the movement in the forementioned specialties is slackened the now neglected stock may also suffer. It is doubtful, however, whether this view takes sufficient account of the elements of unusual strength underlying the railroad list, which have not yet had adequate expression in an advance in their prices. The holders of railroad stocks are generally men of large means, who know what the roads are doing and appreciate the immense business that is in prospect for them during the twelve months; and, although they may not deem the present moment the most opportune for an active speculation in their respective specialties, they would not be likely to sit quietly by while the "bear" trifled with their interests.

The unexpectedly large increase in last week's surplus of the banks is taken as indicating that the outflow of currency to the interior has reached its climax, and that the absorption of the South, soon to be forthcoming, will be provided for by a reflux of money from the West. The reserves of the city banks, however, are in a low condition, much below what they were a year ago and lower than has been expected for the remainder of the year. The net export of fifty-two millions of gold, during the expired portion of the year, has caused a large depletion of the lawful money resources of the banks. Since February last, their stock of gold and legal tenders has been reduced from 165,000,000 to 118,000,000; yet, with this loss of 47,000,000 of lawful money the loans have been reduced only 27,000,000. Under these circumstances the disquieting movements at the foreign money centres are the more closely watched, and there are exceptional reasons for such vigilance. There has rarely been a period when the great national banks of the world have shown such an anxiety as at present exists to accumulate. This hoarding tendency is not due to any commercial wants either present or prospective; for every where, except in the United States, trade is depressed and contracted. It is due partly to a conviction that the critical position of silver may compel an extensive resort to its substitution in banking operations by gold, and also to the springing up of a significant unexplained demand for gold from Russia. The first of these causes naturally creates a deep interest in the approaching monetary conference at Brussels. The bare possibility that something may be done at that gathering to stay the discardment of silver seems, however, to have the effect of holding this hoarding tendency in check for the time being; but should that hope be disappointed it is quite possible that the banking clamor for gold may be reviewed early next spring. The special importance of this to the United States lies in the fact that this country is looked to as the chief source from which the coveted supplies of gold must be drawn. The result of the forthcoming conference has therefore a special importance for this country apart from its bearing upon our specific commitments to the use of silver; and it is to be expected that the course of our money market and, to some extent, the course of our stock market may be influenced by this factor. The drain of gold to Russia is at present a mystery. The czar's government is understood to have to its credit in England 10,000,000 sterling, in Paris 5,000,000 and in Berlin 4,000,000, all in 19,000,000 sterling which it can draw at pleasure. Russia is now drawing on these deposits, and the only check upon her continuing her drafts is the danger that in so doing she may obstruct the issuing of a loan for 250,000,000 which she desires to negotiate in Paris. Austro-Hungary is likely to conduct her accumulation of gold with a like prudence; for she also wants to contract a loan of twenty millions sterling to enable her to resume gold payments, and might easily defeat her purpose by making gold scarce through antecedent purchases of that metal. It will thus be seen that important operations are impending tending to drain gold from quarters where it is most accessible into more or less fixed and permanent hoards, and the sensitiveness, in prospect of these operations, must be expected to increase rather than diminish as the time for their fulfillment approaches. No doubt when the time comes, we shall be found competent to take care of our interests, but anticipation will only contribute to such preparedness, and in the early future bankers may be expected to maintain a conservative position. Fortunately, our credit system and the general business of the country are in an exceptionally sound position; and the composure with which we last year took some 160 millions of securities, returned from Europe within comparatively few months, show that we can withstand shocks that would stagger the strongest European bourses. It has been expected that the bank of England would this week further advance its rate of discount to 3-1-2 or 4 per cent, and the fact that it has not done so implies that for the present at least, these disquieting elements in the European situation are held in abeyance.

THE DYNAMITE OUTRAGE.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The excitement caused by the blowing up of the police station in Rue Des Bon Enfants yesterday shows no abatement. On the contrary it is rather increasing and notwithstanding the denial of the Carmaux miners that they had anything to do with the affair there are plenty of people who place the entire blame upon them. The more the affair is looked into, however, the stronger grows the belief among the unprejudiced that the explosion was not the work of any miner; themselves, but was due to anarchist sympathizers with them. Notwithstanding the extraordinary efforts of the police to discover a clue to the perpetrator of the outrage they have not as yet found the slightest bit of evidence that would lead to his detention. Until after midnight workmen were busy clearing away the debris. They worked by torchlight and the scene when the truly horrible nature of the death of the five victims was borne in mind was a most weird one. It was at first thought the wrecked buildings would have to be torn down and that course may be followed after experts pass an opinion upon the structure. In the meantime, however, the building walls have been braced up to prevent their falling outwards. Among the crowds of onlookers gathered in the streets beyond the barriers was a man who declared the anarchists were right in blowing up the bourgeois. He had hardly uttered the words before he found himself in the grasp of a gen d'arme who locked him up. The government has decided to prosecute a number of militant anarchists. It is the general impression that this action should have been taken before they had an opportunity to perpetrate such a cowardly outrage as that of yesterday. M. Lefrappier, director of the Carmaux mining company states that as he was leaving the offices of the company at 11 o'clock yesterday morning he passed on the stair case a woman whose head was covered with a black, woolen shawl. She was carrying an uncovered basket from which protruded a curiously shaped article wrapped in a newspaper. He took special notice of the woman for she was going up the main stair case instead of the one devoted to the use of servants. The police today made a search of the residence of every known anarchist, not only in Paris but in the suburbs.

New Orleans Strike.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—The situation in the general strike is unchanged. The fact that the cotton laborers are still at work is regarded as a sign of weakness on the part of the strikers. Every effort has been made to make a crew of men and allies quit work, but the men have calculated the season of disaster which would follow the turning of cotton into some other channel and refuse to obey the call of their leaders. There was a meeting last night, but their determination was not shaken, and the fact that such a large element remains at work is bound to have its effect upon the men in other branches who have consented to idleness. The strike of freight handlers has at last affected the business of merchants to a serious extent, but the railroad officials have taken a very firm stand and given the strikers notice that they must return to work at once or lose their places. The railroads have any number of men in a short run of the city, but out of sympathy for the misguided and deluded laborers, have refrained from putting many new men to work, but will not temporize much longer. If they are compelled to put in a new set of freight handlers they will not only bring all the men they require but will assist the merchants in importing labor to take the places of strikers and by Friday there will be ample protection. The government is holding a consultation with the executive committee of the board of trade. The plan is to increase the force of militia. About 1500 men are available but such a force could do little in case of a general strike. The merchants will organize an artillery force of several thousand men and by Friday there will be well armed and ready to take the field. Another plan of attack about decided upon is to file suit against the labor leaders for conspiracy to ruin business. Some particular institutions will be selected so that in case of trouble the United States marshal can be called upon to aid the work of protection and punishment. Governor Foster has mustered the Washington Artillery into the state service for a limited period and 2000 Winchester rifles have been secured for the volunteer force to be supplied by the merchants, so that the governor will have at his commands a force of over 3000 men. The merchants have notified the governor that they will pledge themselves to pay $100,000 for all expenses incurred, and tomorrow a foundation will be laid for governmental interference. The street cars, gas and electric lights have been ordered to operate and the mayor will be asked to furnish police protection. If he refuses or if the protection does not prevent interference, martial law will be declared at once and the military distributed to the best advantage. There is one possible chance for arbitration. A proposition has been made Attorney General Cunningham to submit all differences, including that of unionism, to arbitration and to declare the strike off in the meantime. He has been assured that the labor side will consent to this and if the report proves true the merchants may agree upon a plan. Mayor Fitzpatrick called a special meeting of the council tonight and was authorized to raise a police volunteer force. Police protection has been furnished the railroads where the freight handlers have struck. Switchmen are expected to go out tonight. Police are also guarding the gasworks and sugar refinery.

AT CLEVELAND'S HOME.

He Takes His Victory With Becoming Modesty and Mrs. Cleveland is Happy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Telegrams and letters were literally pouring into Cleveland's residence this morning. The bell was kept ringing from 7 a. m. by messenger boys and visitors, but the next president slept calmly on throughout and had left word that he was not to be disturbed under any circumstances. Cleveland was much in need of rest as it was 5 o'clock this morning before he retired. Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth were up and dressed at the usual hour, and the prattle of the baby and the caressing tones of the mother came up pleasantly from the breakfast room. O'Brien, Cleveland's private secretary, says Mrs. Cleveland was elated in her own quiet way at the result of the battle, and has received congratulations from several women friends. Mrs. Cleveland was the central figure of a group of distinguished people in the drawing room last night, while two telegraph instruments on the floor above ticked off the latest advices from all parts of the country. The ladies remained until 2 o'clock this morning, when the election of Cleveland was assured. Mrs. Cleveland retired soon after they left. Mrs. Cleveland is in high spirits this morning. She said simply: "Of course we are all very much pleased with the news from the election." But Cleveland's pleasure is not demonstrated. He seemed simply in the enjoyment of perfect satisfaction. When Cleveland finally made his appearance he found an accumulation of dispatches awaiting him and with the aid of his secretary attacked the mail with a vigor. Among the dispatches were some of the chairman of state committees of California, Illinois and Wisconsin, assuring him of Democratic victory in those states. At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Cleveland went out driving. Cleveland denied himself to all representatives of the press and begged to be excused this time from expressing any opinion on the result. Private Secretary O'Brien said Cleveland was naturally pleased at the result but had no statement to make.
